The Rategn Daily Press, the leading paper in the State, says:

It is well known to every one, the least conversant with the public sentiment of our State, that Mr. Douglas stands not the ghost of a chance for carrying it against the regular nominations of our party. Indeed, with all the efforts of his friends, we hardly think his vote will reach 5,0% in November. As an evidence of that fact, look at the character of his supporters. With a few exceptions, there is hardly one that has not kicked, or been kicked, out of the regular organization in the last few years; while nine out of ten of the regularly appointed vectors, all of our members of Congress and Semiors and covernors, and all the Democratic papers and regular and prominent members of our party, are for lireckinning and Laine. It is true, some time back many good and true been were for Donglas, because they thought he could beat Lincoln; yet it is apparent that the only effect of division in the State at this time would be to throw the election into the lands of the Opposition.

We clip the following tribute to her great genius from the columns of the St. Louis Bulletin. Our readers will soon have an opportunity to see and judge for them-

"Gereldise"—Miss Bateman.—We had the leasure, on Thesday evening, of again witnessing the performance, at the St. Louis, of Miss Bateman's new and successful tragedy of "Gereldine, or Love's Victory," and can no longer wonder at the old with which it has been performed week after week and month after month, at the principal theaters of Philadelphia, New York, and Boston. As a play, we know of no modern production which can compare with it in its classic propriety of plot, its dramatic includents, or in the beauty, power, and purity of its language. In all these qualities it is an accession to the dramatic literature of the country of no ordinary kind. The characters are distinctly marked and well balanced, the story casily and gracefully developed, and the whole husiness of the piece moves steadily and mulaggingly forward from point to point, until the grand climax burts upon the auditor in all the startling effect of a terrible reality.

In the lovely but unfortunate herolne, Miss Bateman again acquitted herself with exceeding great credit, and at times rose in her efforts to accural sublimity. Her knowledge of the stage is perfect, and she is evidently destined to prove a glorious exception to the general rule that extraordinasy precedity seldem justifies in maturer years the promises of early childhood.

The "Welsh Bard," by Mr. Bateman, is a great feature. Everybody should go and see "Geraldine."

Millionaires Bullding at Newfort, R. I.

Traveler says: "Mr. Harreda, the guano agent at Baltimore, who has made a great fortune by his guano contracts with the Peruviau Government, has lately erected a splendld residence at Newport, which cost $200,000. Mr. Belmont, the agent of the Rothschilds in New York, who recently purchased, for $16,000, fourteen acres of land fronting on Belle via evenue, and extending casterly to "The Cliffs," is also about to build a neat villa for his summer residence. It is worthy of note that, while one of these millionaires has made his money by dealing in gold, the other obtained his by dealing in manure."

AN IMPORTANT OPINION-THE POSTOFFICE NOT TO BE USED FOR FRAUD .- The United States Attorney-General has given an opinion sustainlng the action of the Postmaster of Baltimore, who refused to deliver letters addressed to fictitious persons or firms. The Attorney-General says the postmaster has authority nuder the laws prevent the service from being used for raudulent purposes, and then adds:

to prevent the service from being used for fraudulent purposes, and then adds:

With that end in view, you certainly have power to order the non-delivery of letters addressed to any person under a name which you know to have been assumed, as part of a system intended to chestand defraud the public. But the fraudulent intent ought to be very clear, for you are not invested with any authority to carry on an extended heapiry into private atlades of persons who receive letters my mail, nor have you the means of ascertaining with correctness what they are. It should also be remembered that they are. It should also be remembered that they are in the firm an imaginary one because the style of it has no reference to the name of its members, nor can you stop a letter on the sole ground that it is addressed to a person whose employment is immoral, it being the duty of the State government, and not of the Postoffice Department, to punish such offenses. Pieces of the cabin, parts of turniture, &c., were met in abundance, but to none of them was any body clanging. The McQueen continued her search until a late hour, when she returned to the city, having picked npa dead child and a trunk. John Furlong, when the boat began to break up, succeeded in finding a cabin door, with which he threw himself into the water. A man, who gave his name as Gough, from Indiana, made his way to Furlong's rat, which, proving insufficient for both, and Gough refusing to relinquish his hold, Furlong left it, and succeeded in reaching a cattle pen, upon which he and countale succeeded in reaching the shore.—

When our reporters reached Winetka, at 10, A. The shore there is an uneven hlad, ranging from thirty to sixty feet in height, with a narrow strip of beach at its base. At some points the heavy surfunded direct against the bold blutt. At most points, however, a narrow truct intervened, unwashed by the waves, and so affording a place and foothold for the operations for resene.

The whole beach, for tarce miles, we found strewed with fragments of the light upper portions of the fill-tacted steamer, and cut to see, where the waves were rolling more heavily than is usually seen, even in our September gales, the surface of the angry water, for miles he extent, as far as the eye could reach seaward, was dotted with fragments of the wreck, and rafts and spars, with what were clearly made out to be hauman beings clinging to thom. Our special reporter reached Milwaukee by the earliest traju on Sunday. The train arrived a little after one o'clock P. M., and anid a scene of wild girefand confusion at the depot in that city, such as has probably few parallels. A throng of two or three thousand filled every available oith of nearness to the station. Wives were here, pallid to learn of the fate of husbands, ar afts of sons, and children of parents. What terrful sequence this to the hour when on Irhay morning, to the music of bands playing, all laughter floating across the waves, the tesure exemision of three hundred or more onts, passed out of Milwaukee to return no pore save as an appalled remain of the party. There was no register of the passengers down on Milwaukee. Tickets were printed for the vasion and sold by the Union Guards, and e elerk does not know how many was on ard. He supposes that exclusive of crew there are at least 100.

The vessel with which we collided had got clear of ne, and Capt. Wilson was giving orders to lower a boat to ascertain the extent of the linjury; but when down, the boat could not get near the Elgin by reason of the waves and wind. I assisted in rolling freight to the starboard, to lift the boat over, and also in getting overboard some cattle for the purpose of lighting up. But the water seemed to be coming in so fast, that the Captain ran to the pilot house to see how shwas heading. Being told "West." he said "That's right, boys; get her in to land if you can," the then ran back to the cabin and endeavored to arouse the sleepers and get them on the intrinse deek. Many of the stateroom doors were lastened, and he broke them in with anaxe, exhorting the sleepers, many of whom had been drinking a good deal, to rouse up and save themselves. At a of them remised to leave their berths, but at er a little time, a greater part of the passengers had got to the upper deek. The Captain told each man and woman to get a plans. He preserver, (in which toops of rope were ted), and prepare for the worst. There appeared to be plenty of these, and some were passed down the skylights into the cabins for the use of those who would not come ont. Most of the passengers were cool and collected. Capt. Wilson kept encouraging them by cheerful words, and assurances that the deek would carry us all ashore. At length—surely not more than liteen minutes from the first abrum—the Letin began to settle and reel as if for the final plungs. A few loud screams arose, and a few francie passengers jumped overboard in a harry to meet their fate. Just at the moment when the boat went down, a sea struck her upper works, and they parted from the hull and floated off in several pieces. This was a trying moment. The shock and the force of the waves swept off several of our number, but the night was dark, and as all lights were soon gone, we could not see who was yet safe, and who was gone. I found myself on a piece of the wreek, perhal 15 by 30—a persi

Of the twenty-eight on our raft, only eight—seven men and one woman—were saved. The rest went down within sight and sound of safety.

I was porter of the steamer Lady Elgim. We left Chicago on Friday evening for Milwaukee, shortly hefore midnight. The wind was blowing hard from the Northeast, and a heavy searunning. There was a large party on borardfive or six persons to each state-troin, and many were siceping on the floor. I went to bed about a quarter past two. My bed was on the main deck, near the after gang-way on the larboard side. I had not got asleep when I heard a learful crash. I jumped out of my room whith my pants in hand, and pulled them on as I went on deck. I went forward on the harboard side and saw a vessel at the after gang-way. Some of our crew hallooed to her to send her crew aboard, as we supposed she was sinking; but no am wereas made to our hail, and we saw no person. As-she fell aft some portion of her rigging broke the lamp room windows. She soon was out of sight. I then went forward where I met the captain. He would not leak, as the damage appeared to be not serious. The captain. I went aft for some mattresses, with which to stop the water flooting In.—With t But no attention was paid to us. Finally some one throw us an oar; but it was carried off by the sea. By extraordinary exertions we neared the Eigin somewhat, when a man jumped off the promenate deek, and we took him into the hoat. The wind then blew us away still farther, and we were prevented from making another approach. After laying off alittle while, the distance believen the Eigin and ourselves constantly growing greater, we put the boat before the wind, and with thirteen persons, myself included, started for shore. We saw the lights of the Eigin after we had been from five to ten minnels away. She was rolling heavily. After the expiration of that time, ahe appeared to sink between two heavy swells. When we rose on top of the wave we saw her no more.

We got ashore near Winetka about 6 o'cleck. A. M., worn out and exhausted by the night's danger and fatigue. We suppose the accident happened about ten miles from the land. We had great difficulty in landing under the bluff. Our boat was capsized, but all the party were saved. After an hour or two another boat came ashore containing eight persons. In landing she was usee in the surf and four of her many she was usee in the surf and four of her many she was usee in the surf and four of her many she was transfer and four of her many she was usee in the surf and four of her many she was transfer and four of her many she was transfer and four of her many she was a superior the surf and four of her many she was transfer and four of her many she was transfer and four of her many she was the surface of the su

After we set out, the greatest good feeling was manifested by the party, and dar, they and other forms of merriment were kept up until a lare hour. When the accident happened most of the party hadgone to bed, though there may have been a few still up in the saloon and other parts of the boat. So far as I was able to observe, up to the time of leaving the vessel, but little fear was felt among either passengers or crew. There were not many cries or much wailing among the laddes of the party. Our going away was against our will. With but one oar his such a boat as ours, and in such a aca, we could do nothing but keep our craft before the wind. I know nothing of any raft having been made, though one might have been constructed after life the steamer.

Tronbles Between Spain and Mexico.

The N. Y. Hersid contains the following in regard to the Mexican Spanish question:

"Manister Melane has received his instructions, and will therefore return to Mexico with a full knowledge of the views of our Government in regard to the threatened Spanish hostilities against Mexico. The Liberal Government have informed Spain that the subject of the captured Maria Compten is undergeing a judicial investigation, but this, meantine, it is considered does not prevent Spain, under the law of nations, from neging the restitution of the vessel and an apology for its seizure.—Should Mexico not comply with this demand, Spain will, according to reliable information, resort to force.

When I passed through the cabin on my way to the pilot house, immediately after the cellision, there was much confusion there. Many of the passengers, owing to the searcity of berths, were asleep on the floor, and when the collision took place, the vessel listed so much that all relied on one side of the cabin. This caused much confusion, and when persons from above commenced passing down life-preservers, and those below commenced pulling down doors and other floating material, the analety to obtain these preservers was great indeed. About daylight I saw one bout badly stove, bottom up, and six or seven men clinging to it. Whether or not they were saved I cannot say.

During the time I was on the wreck, I contrived to keep myself warm by threshing my arms, catching pieces of wreck, etc., and in this manner I saved myself from suffering from the cold which proved so fatal to many. LETTER FROM GOV. JOHNSON. MILLEDGEVILLE, GA., August 30, 1851. Gentlemen: I thank you for your kind and pressing luvitation to a barbecue, to be given to Col. Robert McMillen, the Southern Rights candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, on the first Tuesday in September next. But official engagements forbid me the pleasure of its acceptance. Morgan court will be in session at that time.

My personal acquaintance with Col. McMillen is limited, but I know him by reputation as a gentleman of high moral worth, brilliant talents, and sound republican principles. Such men I am pleased to honor, and sincerely trust the great cause whose banner he bears by the united voice of the Sonthern Rights party of his district, may he triumphant.

The content in which the people of Georgia, in common with her sister stave-holding States,

The contest in which the people of Georgia, in common with her sister siave-holding States, are engaged, is one of vital importance. It involves the destiny of the South, and the federative character of our system of government. It is waged upon the right of a State peaceably to secede from the Union. The Gubernatorial candidate of the Southern Rights party maintains the affirmative, and the candidate of the submission party the negative of this great question. The one, that the right uccessarily results from the reserved soveres not of the States, and the nature of the contederacy; and the other, that it exists only as a right of revolution. The former insists that the general government has no right to coerce a seceding State, and the latter that such seceding State must depend for the maintenance of its position "upou the atom hearts and strong arms of a free people." The one unhesitatingly and boildly avows that if a Southern State were to secede, he would not obey a requisition by the Federal Government made on himms the Executive of Georgis, for troops to force her back into the Union; and the other declares he "would convene the Legislature of the State, and recommend them to call a convention of the poople" to instruct him in an emergency in which the impulses of the true Southern heart should be a sufficient guide.—The great issue then, I repeat, is the right of a State to secode from the Union, and the correlative absence of any right, on the part of the Federal Government to force such a State back into the Union. It caunot be evaded by the senseless clamor of Union! this glorious Union! The Integrity of the Union is not assalled by the Sontuern Rights party in Georgia. Its true friends are those who insist upon maintaining the rights resulting from the sovereignty of the States. Its real enemies are those who, from behind it, as a "masked battery," level their destructive artillery against its strongest outposts, by couns the side of truth, their hearth-stones and the Constitution.

To detract from the importance of the issue in public estimation, it is insisted that it is a more abstraction—that it will be time enough for Georgia to determine it, when she shall be called upon to exercise the right of secession. This is but one of the hundred subterfuges of those who man the "masked battery." The issue is vital. It has not been made by the State of Georgia, nor by the Southern States. It has been forced upon up by Federal aggressione. It has been distinctly tendered by high authority. It was tendered by Henry Clay in his great speech upon "the Compromise bills." He said "if resistance is attempted by any State, or by the people of any State, he will lift his voice, his heart and his arm in the support of the common authority of this Government." Through Mr. Webster, the Secretary of State, it has been tendered by the rotten dynasty of the Fillmore administration. For he has distinctly proclaimed the policy of the Cabinet to be carreion, if any State should attempt secession. This issue, then, is upon us. Shall we not meet it? Shall we ingloriously shrink from its decision? Is it true, that to past aggressions Georgia has determined to offer no resistance? But the right to resist and to resist peaceably, without the terror of federal bayonets, she cannot yield; and now she is called upon to make the decision. Let her meet it with firmness and unanimity.

Whoever observes the signs of the times can winever observes the signs of the times cannot fall to see that the right of secession will probably at no distant day, assume the form and magnitude of practical importance. The South is in a permanent minority in our Federai Legislature. The tone of Northern fanaticism abates not in its frenzy and insoience. It presses on rapidly to the consummation of its diabolical designs. And what check has the South upon its progress? Have we any nufer the established rules of parliamentary law? Can we expect any justice at the hands of the present Freesoi Excentive and his Cabinet? Can we effect anything by argument and appeals to the reason of our Northern oppressors? Can we obtain shelter under the broad shield of the Constitution? No! All there are impotent as packthread to restrain an irrepressible and fanatical majority. What, then, are we to do? I say, let us bear to the last point of endurance, but fet us bear to the last point of endurance, but fet us have no right to secede, and that if we do recede we are to be regarded as insargents and revolutionists. It never, never can be true, that our forefathers, in the struggle of '76, fought only to achieve that which is the right of serfs—the right of revolution. They had that under the British crown. But they struggled for more—for colonial sovereignty—and they won it.

and they turn round immediately and saries render all they had battled for into the power of an elective consolidation? Never, never! Those who malutain such a position, faisify all the history of our revolution and bring dishonor upon the master spirits of its thrilling and eventful scence. The right of secession must

If we yield it, we not only procisim, in lyance, that we will submit to usurjustion and gereeston, but we do worse, we admit that we we no right to resist. And that is politic ssalage. Mr. Beli Wili Not Speak. The Journal says Mr. Bell will not speak and the Nashville Banner joins in declaring that he will remain num. It is possible they are both wrong; but we are prepared to admit that the probabilities are in favor of the course they ndicate. And yet we are sure that even the most fastidious would excuse Mr. BELL should he determine to discuss the grave questions now agitating the public mind. The country is dis turbed as it rarely has been, by doubts and fears; and even the most hopeful look forward with gloomy forebodings to the solution of the present difficulties. The Issue to be met and decided is certainly the most serious that has been submitted to the consideration of the American people. It involves more than a mere question of policy-it strikes at great constitutional rights, at the equality of the States, at the perpetuity of the Uniou. Under these circumstances, Mr. Bell stands before the country, the representative of a party, the standard bearer of a pretentious political organization, a candidate for the highest office in the nation. Shall the people of the States unwittingly vote away their rights and their honor? the people

The chost of HENRY CLAY troubles the Journal! It is horrified to think that "Ashland, with all its hallowed memories ciustering aroundit," "was made the site of a barbeene and revel of the locofoeo party." Ilorrible! And yet the Journal, whose delicate nerves are thus shocked at the thought of John C. Breck-INRIDGE, the friend and confident of CLAY, speaking at Ashiand, floats at the head of its 1827, maintaining the charge of "bargain and sale," it thinks a very trifling matter! Itself supporting a men who wrote and published that HENRY CLAY and JOHN QUINCY ADAMS obtained place and power by a "Union of discondant and nostile interests, brought about by the ARTS OF POLITICAL MANAGEMENT AND INTRIGUE. ARTS PIT ONLY TO BE EMPLOYED BY THE MINIONS AND MINISTERS OF PRINCES, WHOSE THRONES ARE SUP-PORTED BY THE PROSTITUTION OF PUB-LIC MORALS," it is shocked to think the friends of a distinguished citizen whom Mr. CLAY loved and trusted, should meet near the iome of that great statesman, to testify to his purity and patriotlem and demonstrate their affection for him! Shame!

The Journal supports JOHN BELL for resident. John Bell believed that while ADAMS and CLAY formed a " coalition " "upon the banks of mutual benefits to be received and conferred," by which one was made President and the other Secretary of State, they "had sense enough to guard against the common blunders of less practiced adepts in the arts of intrigue and management in forming coalitions," and dld not, consequently, "espose themselves to the danger of detection from positive proof." And supporting Mr. BELL, and knowing that the letters from which we have quoted are before the people of the whole country, the Journal professes to l shocked at the thought of the friends of Mr BRECKINHINGE (whom Mr. Clay knew and loved) meeting at Ashland on Wednesday last!

We beg the organ's pardon, and we beg llon. John Yorno Brown's pardon, and we beg pardon of all newly married couples. We confess Mr. Brown didright. We had no right to expect him to leave the arms of his charming young bride to meet Mr. CLAY in discussion. It would have been unpardonable in him to have done so. If we have said anything to the coutrary, we take it back.

The Journal says one of the Breekinridge electors in New York, has been dead several years. It is not the fuel. Mr. THACY, the gentleman to whom it alludes, is alive and kicking, and will do good service in behalf of the Constitution and the Union.

Success of a Westerler Bor.—About cigateen years ago a boy in Westerley, who had learned a mechanic's trade in Jacob D. Bablecock's chop, left the town to work in Providence. Remaining there but a chort time, because he could command but u dollar and a half ner day he found a situation in the Tare. per day, he found a situation in the Taunton Serew Company's Works, Taunton, Mass. There he soon rose by his talent and industry to an office, or situation, where he was paid three office, or situation, where he was paid three thousand dollars per year for his services. Five years ago he invented a machine for the Improved manufacture of screws, and received a yearly price for its use. This year, all the New Eugland Screw Companies having become consolidated in one, he has sold his right to his machine for one hundred thousand doilars. He now resides in Taunton, in as line a residence as any man in Westerley possenses. Boys, who comes next?—[Narragansett Weekly.

un Vulcanite Base, Mesers. Fittz & Fulton are more fully prepared to indorse its claims of superiority t everything else as a base for Artificial Teeth. Who they introduced it in Lonisville they advertised it as follows: That it was one just lighter than metal, mor cleanly, sud that they were more certain of getting a perfect fit of the month. They now go further, and ear that it is much stronger than sets on metal, and less liable to be lujured by accident, while the low price brings it within the reach of all. Believing that their efforts to give the best work at small profits will be appreciated, they have determined on a reduction columns the name of JOHN BELL, whose letters of October 11th, 1826, and September 17th, piedge themselves to replace with gold, without extra charge, any set on Vuicanite that fails in any one particular as set forth above. They still put up the gold work for those who desire it. Office next door to the Cathedral, Fifth street Louisville, Ky. jy6 tf

DAILY COURIER.

A Rulned Land and City. A correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin who is traveling through Sonora, writes to that Falling in every endeavor to engage an escor i Santa Cruz, I was at last reliminally obliged o attempt to cross with my servauts about the ided desert that intervenes between the frontier and Arispie. The road was atterly unknown to s; maps could not be obtained, guides were up of the question, and with such verbal direc-ous as were accessible, we launched out into welds measurements.

heathen. Without, the view was not less gloony, A large and luxurious orchard devastated by fire—long lines of acequias—while grain fields, once cultivated, now bare and sterile—munterous corrais, moldering lurnaces, and vast piles of copper-slug remained to attest its former opnience. Becamuche must have been a pleasant place in other times, when the wide halls of the old manor-house re-echacil the voice of music and at minstrelay; but, melancholy and sick at heart. I turned away from the contemplation of this memento of national decadence.—From Santa Cruz to Arispe, not a human being owns a habitation and a hume.

From Its isolated and retired position, this place was peculiarly exposed to the attacks of the Apaches, from which the mines were accustomed to oscape by the simple expedient of energing the mine and setting the savages at delicance. On the 15th of November, 17th, the Apaches, cluding the vigilance of the frontier garrisou, made a sudden inroad in force, and penetrated as far as Espiritu Santo. The inhabitants took refuze, as usual, in the mine; but the wity enemy, not to be bulked of his prey, tilled the shafts and adils with dry wood, and applied the torch. Mortal eye saw not their agonies, but when the Iraops urrived, inanimate curpses of three hundred and eighty victims of every sex and age were drawn from the galleries—not as ull remained alive of all that thusy people!—Sach outrages were not passed over then as lightly as new, and Colonel Vasquez appeased with a floody holicacust the manes of the slaughtered. In the old archives I that it recorded that more than two thousand Apaches were known to have been destroyed in the nine months' campaign which followed.

Arispe, the capital of the State under the Spanish ruic, once a populous and flourishing towa, peopled by the hest families of the journe, is now a poor, miserable heap of ruthish, occupied by some eight hundred or one thousand souls, who may be considered mere tenauts at will of the Apaches. In Santa Cruz, the savages entered the prec rave forth a hollow sound indicative of the poverty within.

The ladies had once the reputation of heing he most numiable, the most lecutiful, and most sefined of any on the Pacific coast of Mexico, being mostly descendants of old Spanish families of repute; but almost all the better class have emigrated to more favored climes.

I could obtain hut little reliable information concerning the former state of the city. The worthy padre, a man of more than ordinary incelligence, told me, with a lace of great gravity, that it had been "en el tiempo del rey" the seat of the viceroyalty of New Spain! In the year 1774, there were eighty-four mines worked in the district of Arispe, some of them of extraordinary richness; new, I believe, not one. Most of the old national edifices are levelled to the ground, and the archives are heing destroyed piece-ment.

Perfectly safe How Not to be Robbed. onviet in the Cherry Hill Penltentiary fur-the Philadelphia Inquirer with the follow-vice as a precaution against being robled: It begin with burglary. In the first place,

A word to members of the Catholic church, tending mass on Sunday norming. There are en who watch families who attend early mass, get the chance to enter houses and rob them hile marly all are absent. Once in the house, eyeut heds open, break chests, trunks, draws, closets, &c., lunning for money and valuries.

There are many doublings in the human eart; don't think that you can find out the chole of a man's real character at once.

A convict in the Cherry Hill Pententiary furnishes the Philadelphia Inquirer with the following advice as a precaution against being robbed:

I will begin with burglary. In the first place, most robberies is what is called put up, I. c., some one has given information where money is kept in private dwelling houses, or that they can get so much by entering some particular place, or, If It is a store, where all the best goods are to be found, or where the safe key is hidden, if any are so foolish as to leave one in their store. Persons should never let servanis, or even acquaintances, know where they keep Their money; not that they would be the means intentionally of getting them robbed, but they might merely say to some one clse, what a nice place Mr. or Mrs. So-and-so has for keeping their money. This, perhaps, goes the rounds until some barglar hears of it himself, or he is told by some one clse. But now for the remedy. I hope, so for, I am understood in specifying as to the manner of keeping your mouey, and what keeps your money safe.

The remedy is very simple—in private dwellings andstores, keepin door mouey, and what keeps your money safe.

The remedy is very simple—in private dwellings as small dog will answer—if he hut barks at the approach of any one; if he does not hels useless. Keep him in daytime where no one can make his acquaintance, and where he will not get acquaintaced with any one's voice but your own, or some one you can place the greatest confidence in. I would advise those having silver plate to keep it lu their bed-rooms, and when they go to hed hack the door, have a roughe of good holts on the door besides the lock. Burglars can open the door from the outside if the key is left in, and if taken out they can enter with talse ones; but if there are good boils they will be sure to awaken you. I say they will pry the door—I mean, if there are holts on the door, they will be sure to awaken you. It may be a mystery to some merchants to know alow stores are "weeded" of their best goods, is like, laces, etc., etc.) The mystery is very casicy explained. No one clee but some one who is employed about the store could well give this miorization, and such is the case. It's your porter, clerk, or some one of the employees, that has your place robbed of the best goods, if you have fast young men, or old inten that frequent theaters, fancy drinking saloons, and you are robbed, have some one to watch them, and you may detect those that have robbed you. They will make the acquaintance of men of loose character or their women, by going to these places I have just mentioned, the theaters information that is required; if the men fall to do this the women will not—not that in all cases your imployees would wish to rob yon, but merely to please these men or their women, they give this information.

Storekeepers and persons living in private dwellings, should never go to the front part of the house or store when there is a procession passing, without fastening the back part of the house or store when there is a procession passing, without fastening the back part of the house or store when there is a procession with the purpose to rob houses in this way, while the inmates are looking at the passing procession. During the past week or so, the Lonisville and Nashville Railroad has been so crowded with busl-ness, that thousands of dollars worth of Irado have been lost to the city. Not long since, a large buyer came here from Nashville, and purchased 500 bbls of Flour from one of our city millers, which they omised to ship as soon as possible. Ite also pur chased arlicles at Cincinnail, ordering them to be cut through. The goods which he purchased else where have gone through, while the Flour is still by lng in this city, awaiting shipment. There is a large Southern demand here for corn, wheat, and all kind of produce, which are much needed in the thern part of this State, Tennessee, Georgia, and Alabama, at this time, and were our merchants able o ship the grain, a large amount would be said, bu as it is, the stock on hand is constantly lucreasing and our grain dealers have every place they can pro-cure stored full of grain. The gales of the depot are to be thrown open to-day for the receipt of through freight and we hope our merchants will take a early start, and forward their long delayed freight.

The preposal of Iliram Sibley, representing the Western Union Telegraph Line, was in accordance with the minimum sum in the act of Congress, viz.; $40,000 per annum and $3.00 for a single dispatch of ten words, with the usual proportionate deduction upon dispatches of great length. The other, Adams, of Harrisburg, Fa., bids $63,000 per annum, for ten years. Orville Clark, of Sandy Hill. N. Y., and J. H. Harman, of Berroit, $25,000 for ten years; B. J. Ficklin, of St. Joseph, makes these bids—in the first, 25,000 per annum, for ten years; second, $40,000, per annum, for ten years, second, $40,000 per annum, for ten words, will the usual deduction on those of greater length; and the 3d. $40,000, accompanied with a proposition to run a pony express after the first 500 miles of the line is linished, at the usual telegraphic rates, until the line is completed. For this, however, the uet makes no provision. There were present at the opening of the bids, Messra, Sibley, Ficklin, J. S. Grabam, and J. W. Bee. The last named is connected with the Placerville and St. Joseph lines. The Secretary of the Treasury will probably make his decision the last of this week. Pacific Telegraph Contract.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Offleial advices from New Mexico dated Angust 8th, state that elghi companies of the lifth regiment of infantry have been ordered to Bear Spring to commence the construction of Fort Fountieroy. Other partions of the regiment from Ulah are being distributed throughout that Territory in accordance with previous orders. Two companies are to be stationed in the vicinity of Arizona. It was yesterday stated that the expense of the Japanese Embasy in the United States, according to accounts rendered in the State Department, were only half the amount appropriated by Congress, but since it has been ascertained that the War and Navy Departments have claims for presents, including implements of war and personal expenses from Japan to this country, which will probably absorb nearly the remainder of the $50,000 appropriated.

A special agent has been dispatched to California from the Attorney General's offlee to obtain Information and convey instructions relative to the gold mine suits and other legal business of that Spate.
